Wear a Dar Camisole With a Dark Waist

The widespread popularity of the dark suit blouse of georgette has brought into being the dark-colored camisole.

At last women seem to have come to a realization that dark georgette over white or flesh lingerie produces anything but a "clothed" effect. The thin dark waist should never be worn save over a non-transparent slip of the same or contrasting color. The shops are showing slips and camisoles in all possible colors. Green or American Beauty is often sold for wear under a navy georgette walst, and produces a very smart effect. Taupe also looks well over these two colors, while "burnt orange," that wonderful new shade of yellow, seems to have been created especially combination with grays, taupes and browns.

By use of these new camisoles an off-shade in a waist can frequently be made to look well with a suit it

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS MAY BE OVERCOME

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or are even just a little hard of hearing or have head noises, go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it 14 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 table-spoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleas-ant to take. Anyone losing hearing or who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this pr scription a friel.—(Adv.)

Washington, Oct. 22.—When King Albert and Queen Elizabeth of Beigium visit Washington at the completion of their tour through the United States, Mrs. Thomas R. Knowing this as we do, there is no man or woman in America who can hear the Red Cross request for funds today without realizing in his heart that were he "out of luck." he need whasitate not a minute to ask the help to the Red Cross. It is his Red Cross, whether he is a millionaire who sought in the war to gain word of a son is ricken down in battle, or whether he is a discharged service man, without home or job or funds, finding in the Red Cross a real friend.

"The greatest mother in the world," the Red Cross has been christened. Another name would not be inappropriate. It is—ner without one prophetic hint.

Always on the Job.

It is not our purpose to inspire needless fears, but it is our purpose to urge two things—one is preparedness and another is relief. To guard against all possible disaster is the duty of every community; and no less is it the duty of a community to be able to meet disaster when it comes. We have police stations and fire houses for protection, and we have hospitals for relief. But our duty does not stop there. The American Red Cross, through its future programs, aspires both to protect and to relieve. Its record in the past has taught us that no other agency is so well qualified to do so. The Red Cross has always been "on the job," not alone in war, but at the Eastland disaster, at the Galveston flood, at the San Francisco carthquake, on every occasion when the need was the Red Cross has been christened.
Another name would not be inappropriate. It is—"Everybody's buddy."
Opportunity for South.

If the south shows a clean-cut, 100 per cent. response in the third Red Cross roil call, it will do more to heip the south in the eyes of the nation and the eyes of the world than anything that could be done at this time. It will declaim in unmistakable language our Americanism, our progress and our prosperity. Therefore, it behooves every southerner to rally to the campaign with all he has to give in money and moral support. The cause in itself is the most humanitarian that could be found; considered in the cold light of sectional interest, it is more than that. Not only an opportunity, but a duty to himself and his homeland is plainly before the eyes of every southern man and woman in the roil call.

Any city, looking toward another at a time of great disaster, might well say to itself, "There, but for the grace of God, goes—"

It is hard, perhaps, to realize this. It is always hard to think that the life is always hard to think that the life is always hard to the basily have It is always hard to think that the tragedy of another might easily have been yours. And when it asks America to give generously in the third Red Cross roll call, it does not ask American, cities and American people to do this for others, but for themselves. In giving protection against disease and against suffering, the Red Cross is not giving to another community, but to yours.
